Election Of 1840 And Party Leaders Of That Time

The following extract was taken from a history of Audrain County, and is of the election in this county in 1840: "Although the county of Audrain was not so densely populated as its neighboring counties in 1840, yet that election was of remarkable political excitement between the Whigs, with General Harrison as their presidential candidate, and the Democrats who were wildly in favor of Martin Van Buren who had beaten Harrison in 1836.

"Men, women and children, for months before the election, seemed to have little else to engage their attention. Every village had its cabin and tall Whig pole, representatives of the Whig party, while hickory poles loomed up emblematic of General Jackson and the Democratic party. Mighty crowds were assembled in the log cabins to hear inflammatory speeches and indulge in potations of hard cider, while the Democrats met in council and heard and made speeches.

"All parties sang and drank during the campaign quite as much as was necessary and considerably more. It was the commonest event to meet hundreds of farmers' wagons loaded with from fifteen to twenty of both sexes, singing and roaring as they wended their way to some point agreed upon, where they were to listen to the eloquence of some great party leader and exhibit their patriotism."

Among some of the influential Whig politicians in Audrain County from 1837 to 1850 were James Harrison, F. P. Canterbury, W. L. Wayne, John P. Clark, J. B. Morris, Robert Calhoun, William N. Campbell, R. C. Mansfield and John P. Beatty, all of whom were great admirers of Henry Clay and Whig principles. The Democratic leaders of the county were James Jackson, A. B. Tinsley, John Turner, J. C. Canterbury, Richard Lee, Dr. William H. Lee, Caleb Williams, Martin Oslin and John R. Crosswhite.

Sanderson is under sentence by the Audrain county circuit court of disbarment for a period of one year.

A decision by the supreme court is not expected under a month, and it is quite possible that the decision will be delayed several months. — Fulton Gazette.

Hamilton, of Carbondale, Ill., owner of the building was here this week and started a crew of carpenters at work remodeling the various parts of the building and preparing to start work shortly on a thoroughly modern apartment building unless his plans change.

Mr. Hamilton says his intentions are to remodel the structure completely, redecorate and refinish, install an electric automatic elevator so that all floors will be available and put in a large number of two room apartments with bath and kitchenette. Mr. Hamilton says he intends making the building a model in every particular and attractive to those desiring comfortable and modern rooms.

The building, two stories high, which is just east of the main building, will be wrecked shortly. Mr. Hamilton owns twenty feet of this structure. The remaining fifty feet belongs to A. C. Whitson, E. J. Kidd and Leo Hanley. Later this building will be rebuilt with modern business rooms.

Climax of Missouri Duroc Sales

Carrollton - Missouri

February 15th

Lozier & Lozier, in afternoon
Hudson Cooper, at night

Over 100 bred sows and gilts.

All richly bred and of outstanding individuality, picked from two of the greatest herds in the west.

More daughters of world famous boars will be sold in these two sales than in any sale in the middle west this year.

Practically the entire offering is made up of daughters of champions and grand champions. These offerings are not "distantly related" to the great boars of the breed, but are either daughters or granddaughters of boars that have made Duroc history.

Pathfinders, Sensations and Orions.

Not an inferior sow in the two offerings.

Stock hogs are selling higher than fat ones, which indicate a strong advance in prices for the coming season. In 1920 the nine principal markets received three million, two hundred thousand fewer hogs than in the preceding year. The corn belt states have four million fewer hogs than a year ago and there has not been so great a scarcity of brood sows on the farms for years.

There never was a better time to buy pure-bred Durocs than now. With the big corn crop and a great scarcity of hogs, prices are sure to advance. Even at present prices nothing will make more money than hogs. Hogs are mortgage lifters.

Attend these sales and buy outstanding pure-bred Durocs to take the place of your grade hogs.

When you buy, why not buy the best?

HAS SCHOOL LETTER

County Superintendent Ed C. Offutt received the following news letter from State Superintendent Baker Wednesday:

"The Legislative program is under way. The bill raising qualifications for third grade certificates has been referred to the committee. The amendment to the compulsory school law, he kindergarten bill and the minimum salary bill have been introduced. The physical education bill and the teacher training bill are ready and will be introduced early next week.

The big measure, THE COUNTY UNIT BILL, has met much opposition on account of the fear of many people that the towns now running first class high schools and voting heavy taxes will be injured because they might not be able to vote as high a levy under the county unit."

An amendment has been proposed excepting all districts providing first class high schools, which will throw out this argument against the county unit bill.
